An entrepreneurial-minded business development professional, Ben Kelly has spent the past 6+ years in business development roles in the dietary supplement and food ingredient industry. Ben leads new business for Algorithm and POS Biosciences where he is responsible for implementing strategic sales and marketing initiatives and for collaborating with global partners. Working closely with both company's industry-leading scientific teams, Ben serves a critical market prospecting role where he collaborates with and finds potential, strategic partners to further commercialize new ingredients and products.

Ben was a Co-Founder of Algorithm and has been instrumental in securing partners as the company gains traction in new, lucrative markets; today he leads Algorithm as the Managing Director. He holds his B.A. from the University of New Brunswick and his M.P.A from the University of Saskatchewan. Ben's partner Katie and their two daughters make their home in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada.
